Lower Berse Farm, Wrexham in 1970

Ym 1970 fe ymwelodd y Comisiwn Brenhinol â Lower Berse Farm ger Wrecsam i ymchwilio i hanes yr adeilad a rhoi cyngor i'r perchnogion am fod arnynt eisiau moderneiddio'r llawr uchaf. Cawsai tŷ neuadd canoloesol ei guddio adeg ailgodi'r adeilad ym 1873. Gwnaed lluniadau ohono a thynnwyd ffotograffau i'w hadneuo yn yr archif.

In 1970 the Royal Commission visited Lower Berse Farm near Wrexham to investigate the history of the building and provide advice to the owners, who wanted to modernise the upper floor. There was a medieval hall house hidden amid a rebuild of 1873. Drawings were made and photographs taken for deposition in the archive.

Chwith: Ystafell fyw Lower Berse Farm. Er i'r llun gael ei dynnu ym 1970, mae'r addurno'n adlewyrchu arddulliau a phatrymau a oedd yn boblogaidd o ddechrau'r 1900au ymlaen.

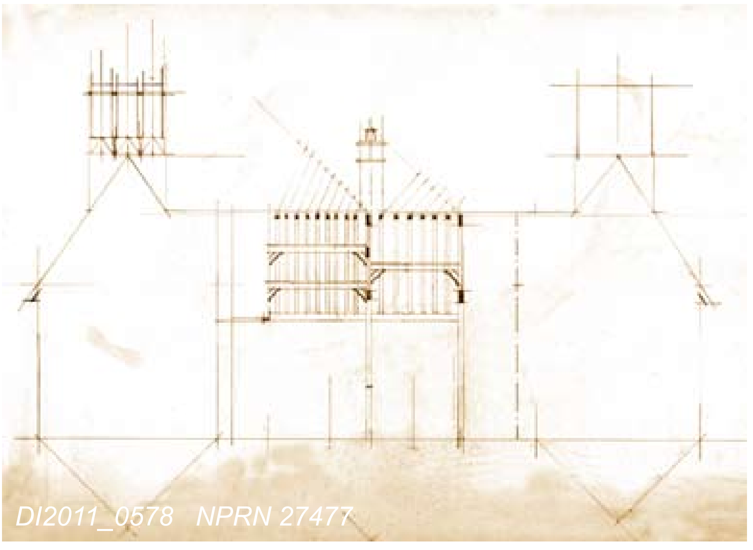
Chwith: Pan ychwanegwyd llawr uchaf at yr adeilad, cuddiwyd cyplau cerfiedig y to o'r golwg. Gallant roi gwybodaeth bwysig am ddyddiad yr adeilad ac am ddatblygiad pensaernïaeth draddodiadol Cymru.

Left: When an upper floor was inserted into the building, the carved roof trusses were hidden from view. These can provide important information on the date of the building and the development of Welsh traditional architecture.

Chwith: Cerfiwyd Canopi Esgynlawr Lower Berse Farm yn gelfydd ac mae'n amlwg ei fod yn arwydd o statws. O dano yr eisteddai perchennog yr eiddo i fwyta a chynnal busnes wrth ei fwrdd.

Left: The Dais Canopy at Lower Berse Farm, under which the owner of the property sat to eat and conduct business at his table is deftly carved, and is a clear status symbol.



Chwith: Gwnaed y lluniad hwn i ddangos coed y to mewn perthynas â gweddill yr adeiladwaith.

Left: This drawing was made to show the roof timbers in relation to the rest of the building structure.
